

Dictionary Definition of impresario:

noun

a theatrical impresario: organizer, manager, producer, stage manager; promoter, publicist, showman; controller, arranger, fixer; financier, money man; director, conductor, maestro.

(Announced in a strong British Accent) (Aliza Imari will be checking its authenticity.)

I organize my calendar

I manage my itch

I produce poetry on meals

I stage manage my apartment with Liberace memorabilia, Kerry may not approve.

I Promote the best parts of myself on a daily basis.

Weeds do appear unexpectedly of course and weed whacking is taken over by the publicist who edits limbs and whole organs. At times, grow back like weeds.

The showman and showwoman's, keeping with reality that our DICK-tionaries do seem to forget that women have given birth centuries.

I'm showing up everyday and controlling myself where necessary in order to imbue the atmosphere with an aromatic discussion but not with too much spice in case of offending the locals.

They tend to keep to themselves. If you do want to join their club you must perform which brings us -

To the arranger - the arranger brings the plates and spins them, and the fixer glues them back together when they fall down and break into many little pieces and shards. The financier steps in, in order to assure no one gets cut on his watch, well, at least not until he's left the room. He/She will SPREAD the WEALTH unless course he/she is a REPUBLICANNY. Uncanny how they work so diligently at discarding valuable matter.

This brings us to the money man & money woman who always makes sure that all of the cash will be carried by the strongest jack ass in the live stock pen.

Ah yes, the director and the conductor will duke it out and finally they will learn how to share positions of power; as Ross has said; "A Little help from my friends." And finally the MAESTRO also knows as the MAESTRA, since I do speak Italian fluently, I am more than certain these two equal sexes are both equally impressive.

Don't you think we should all get on the same page and impress the hell out of each other!

Laura La Sottile

Prompt 12